

Success Story

Predictive Analytics

Leading travel management company significantly boosts revenue with actionable insights from predictive analytics

The Client

The client is one of the leading global players in travel management, headquartered in Europe, offering corporate, private and public travel management services. The company is one of the largest in the industry and enjoys a worldwide presence with revenues of $25 billion.

Requirements and Challenges

The client required a data system that would yield meaningful insights to help them streamline operations and boost revenue.

- Challenged by a large-scale operation deluged with data, the client required a solution that could offer incisive insights for better decision-making
- They needed a solution that could “read the customer’s pulse” by analyzing data from multiple data points captured through various interactions
- The transition from data to insights required an advanced solution that bridged the gap – and generated actionable intelligence and insights – to address buyers’ demands

Shree Partners Solution

We designed a solution that generated real-time, easy-to-interpret visualization of complex data sets transformed into insights. To streamline the data and insights, we developed an automated solution that enabled users to drill-down, self-serve and analyze data in an interactive environment. Key features included:

- Framework within MicroStrategy to fetch data from various databases in parallel with aggregated data
- Inclusion of remarks labels within a dashboard/reports, bypassing cube
- Analysis of booked data vs. invoiced data at PNR level
- Adding links to transactional-level reporting
- Accessing transitional reports via Analytics links
- Predefine Analytics-level reports with transactional-level details
- Custom/D3 visualization
- Reports generated from aggregated data create multiple “what if” scenarios to give users multiple perspectives

Business Benefits

- Offer accurate, consistent insights and interpretations based on historical data
- Client experienced significant conversion rates across product and service offerings
